

NEWSLETTER FROM SHIRLEY

“I’m here to be a messenger of hope, God’s love, and second chances!”

~SHIRLEY MOZENA

The Book is out!

From our pastors about the book:

Jim and Shirley have presented a very thorough journey through the deepest part of their hearts in this book. I have known Jim for more than twenty years and Shirley since their dating days. I have witnessed the beautiful thing that God has done in, through, and for them. Honesty and transparency mark the core of this writing as they seek to help others wade through the oftentimes gut-wrenching waters of a great loss. With these tools, their prayer is that others will be able to approach new relationships from a healthy platform, bathed in prayer. To God be all the glory! ~Paul Auble, Corbett Community Church, Corbett, Oregon.

It’s been a privilege to know Shirley Mozena for over thirty years ...Shirley and Jim Mozena minister to people recovering from grief. They both know what they’re talking about. Second Chance at Love, is heartfelt, helpful, and to the point. Their honest and open engagement of challenging topics will benefit those in similar circumstances. The questions at the end of each chapter invite personal reflection and lay out practical steps for those wishing to make the most of their “second chance. ~Paul Jackson, Glenwood Community Church, Vancouver, Washington.

What’s this book about? Read more.....

You're working through the grief process and now you feel it's time to meet someone you might marry. You're an empty nester: you thought you'd be fine as a single person, but realize a lifetime partner might be better. You may have grandchildren. You may not be retired yet, but in the next few years it might happen and you'd enjoy having someone to share retirement with you.

In this book, we address seven key issues we think deserve careful consideration before remarriage:

- Grief work
- Finances
- Faith
- Blending families
- Sex

Now available in paperback or e-Book at Redemption Press:
<https://bit.ly/2Ow0Kg0>

Also available at Amazon and Good Reads.
Available soon at my website:
<https://shirleymozena.com/books>

Are you happily married and don't see the worth of purchasing this book? How about a family member? Friend? Parent? Our stories will enrich your own marriage.

Shirley, with her husband Jim, know the demands of remarriage. Both have been widowed—Shirley twice. They came from long and enduring marriages and found it to be fulfilling. They discovered that in spite of their love for each other, there were challenges before their wedding took place.

They share their heart of compassion to those grieving the loss of a loved one and together have facilitated a grief support group for five years.

Through helping others in their grief, they know firsthand the journey that must be taken to be ready to marry again. Join them as they share their joys, sorrows, and even misfires in pursuing a marriage partner. This book will show you through their own experiences of what's important in what a couple might face in second or third marriages.

